1. What type of drum will i need for the course

We recommend that you buy a Djembe. A Djembe is a drum traditionally from West Africa. It is made up of a wooden body and usually animal skin for the skin.

You will also find Djembes that are made of synthetic skin which create a slightly different sound and non-wooden bodies that can sometimes make the drum a little lighter to hold

2. What size Djembe should i buy?

If you would like to play the djembe while sitting on a chair or a raised platform then we would advise a drum with a height of 60cm and a face (width) of 10inches to 12 inches.

For children and if you would like to play the drum while sitting on the floor then we would advise a drum with a height of 50cm and face (width of 10inches +)

3. Sythentic or Wooden Djembe?

Have a look on the following website for a breakdown on the pros and cons of each type of drum.

We also advise you to have a listen to how these drums may sound on youtube. Each person will resonate with a different type of drum

4. How much will i have to spend

Good quality djembes can be anywhere from £150 to £500 and more. If you are looking to invest in a good quality djembe that will last you a long time then perhaps its best for you look at the higher range of djemeb.

However if you are looking for a djembe that will get you going as a starter drum you should be able to find drums from £70 and above. Second hand drums are also a good option.
